MEMORANDUM AND RECOMMENDATION

On 4 January 2012, petitioner Daryl Steven Carr (“petitioner”) filed a petition (D.E. 90) to vacate, set aside, or correct his sentence pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255. On 21 February 2012, the court directed the government to file an answer or other appropriate response to the petition. (D.E. 94). On 4 June 2012, the government filed a motion to dismiss (D.E. 99) the petition with a supporting memorandum (D.E. 102<sup>1</sup>), to which petitioner responded (D.E. 104). However, on 23 August 2012, the government withdrew (D.E. 105) its motion to dismiss. The petition, which has been fully briefed,<sup>2</sup> was referred to the undersigned for a memorandum and recommendation pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1)(B) and Rules 8(b) and 10 of the Rules Governing Section 2255 Proceedings. For the reasons stated herein, it will be recommended that the petition be denied.

BACKGROUND

I. Petitioner's Conviction

On 27 September 2006, petitioner was charged in a three-count indictment with two counts of possession of a stolen firearm in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 922(j) (cts. 1, 2) and one count of possession of a firearm by a convicted felon in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 922(g) (ct. 3). (Indict. (D.E. 1) 1-2). On 2 June 2008, pursuant to a written plea agreement (D.E. 53), petitioner pled guilty to count three (see Min D.E. 56) and the remaining two counts were dismissed at sentencing (see Min D.E. 68).

On 14 October 2008, the court sentenced petitioner to a term of 262 months imprisonment and 5 years supervised release. (J. (D.E. 69) 1-3). Petitioner thereafter appealed his sentence to the Fourth Circuit, and on 26 January 2010, the Fourth Circuit affirmed (see D.E. 78, 79).

II. Petitioner's Claim

In his petition, petitioner asserts that his conviction for the offense of felon in possession of a firearm under 18 U.S.C. § 922(g) should be vacated because the state conviction used to support the conviction no longer qualifies as a felony under the Fourth Circuit's en banc decision in United States v. Simmons, 649 F.3d 237 (4th Cir. 2011). (See Ground 1, Pet. 4<sup>3</sup>; Supp. Mem. 3-4). While the government initially sought to dismiss the petition, it withdrew its motion to dismiss. In the notice of withdrawal, the government stated that it was waiving its defenses to the motion and took the position that, pursuant to Simmons, the court should vacate petitioner's conviction on count three and reinstate counts one and two for further proceedings. (See Notice of Withdrawal 1-2).

DISCUSSION

I. Standard of Review for § 2255 Petitions

Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255, a prisoner may seek correction or vacation of a sentence on the grounds that: (1) the sentence was imposed in violation of the Constitution or laws of the United States; (2) the court was without jurisdiction to impose such sentence; (3) the sentence was in excess of the maximum authorized by law; or (4) the sentence is otherwise subject to collateral attack. 28 U.S.C. § 2255(a). Rule 4(b) of the Rules Governing § 2255 Proceedings provides that the courts must promptly review § 2255 petitions along with “any attached exhibits, and the record of prior proceedings” to determine if the petitioner is entitled to any relief. Id. If the court concludes that the petitioner is not entitled to relief, it must dismiss the petition. Id. Otherwise, it must direct the United States Attorney to file a response. Id. Generally, an evidentiary hearing is required under 28 U.S.C. § 2255 “[u]nless it is clear from the pleadings, files, and records that the prisoner is not entitled to relief.” United States v. Rashaad, 249 Fed. Appx. 972, 973 (4th Cir. 2007) (citing Raines v. United States, 423 F.2d 526, 529 (4th Cir. 1970)).

II. Absence of Need for an Evidentiary Hearing

The court has considered the record in this case and applicable authority to determine whether an evidentiary hearing is needed to resolve the matters before the court. The court finds that the existing record clearly shows that petitioner is not entitled to relief on his claim under Simmons and that an evidentiary hearing is not needed. The court will therefore proceed without an evidentiary hearing.

III. Petitioner's Simmons Claim

In its en banc decision in Simmons, the Fourth Circuit overruled prior circuit precedent and held that in determining whether to enhance federal sentences based on prior North Carolina convictions, a district court must look not to the maximum sentence that North Carolina courts could have imposed for a hypothetical defendant who was guilty of an aggravated offense or had a prior criminal record, but instead to the maximum sentence that could have been imposed on a person with the defendant's actual level of aggravation and criminal history. Simmons, 649 F.3d at 241; see also United States v. Powell, 691 F.3d 554, 556 (2012) (discussing Simmons holding). The basis for this change in circuit precedent was the United States Supreme Court's decision in Carachuri-Rosendo v. Holder, --- U.S. ---, 130 S. Ct. 2577 (2010). It held that when determining whether a state offense constitutes an aggravated felony for the purposes of the Immigration and Nationality Act, such offense cannot be enhanced and thereby treated as an aggravated felony on the basis of facts upon which the conviction did not actually rest---that is, facts outside the record of conviction. Carachuri, 130 S. Ct. at 2586, 2589; see also United States v. Zambrano, 437 Fed. Appx. 250, 252 (4th Cir. 2011) (discussing Carachuri holding). Approximately one year after the Simmons decision, the Fourth Circuit, in United States v. Powell, ruled that a convicted defendant could not seek application of Carachuri retroactively on collateral review because the rule announced in Carachuri was procedural in nature, not substantive. Powell, 691 F.3d at 559-60. Procedural rules apply retroactively only when they are "watershed rules of criminal procedure implicating the fundamental fairness and accuracy of the criminal proceeding." Id. at 560 (quoting Saffle v. Parks, 494 U.S. 494, 495 (1990) (internal quotation marks omitted)).

While Powell did not expressly address the retroactivity of Simmons on collateral review, subsequent rulings by the Fourth Circuit indicate that, like Carachuri, Simmons is not applicable retroactively on collateral review. Indeed, as plainly stated by the Fourth Circuit, “[i]n [Powell], this court held that [Carachuri] announced a procedural rather than a substantive rule, and therefore is not retroactively applicable to cases on collateral review. Under Powell, [Carachuri] and Simmons do not afford [petitioner] habeas relief.” United States v. Newbold, 490 Fed. Appx. 614, 615 (4th Cir. 2012); see also United States v. Peters, 2013 WL 1943801, at *1 (4th Cir. 13 May 2013 (“In Powell, we held that [Carachuri], and by extension, [Simmons], were not retroactively applicable.”); United States v. Brown, No. 12-7713, 2012 WL 6604898, at *1 (4th Cir. 12 Dec. 2012) (unpublished) (“[A]s we have recently explained [in Powell], our holding in Simmons is not retroactively applicable to cases on collateral review.”); United States v. Wheeler, No. 11-6643, 2012 WL 5417557, at *1 (4th Cir. 7 Nov. 2012) (“[Petitioner’s] claim [under § 2255] for retroactive application of the Supreme Court’s opinion in [Carachuri], and our opinion in [Simmons], fails in light of our recent opinion in [Powell].”). Thus, as succinctly stated in one recent decision from the Western District of North Carolina, “[t]he Fourth Circuit has recently and repeatedly said Simmons is not retroactive [on collateral review].” McClain v. United States, Nos. 3:12-CV-5-RJC, 3:12-CV-82-RJC, 3:08-CR-218-RJC, 2013 WL 639119, at *3 (W.D.N.C. 21 Feb. 2013) (dismissing petitioner’s § 2255 petition in which he claimed that, on the basis of Simmons, he was actually innocent of being a felon in possession of a firearm even though the government had conceded that the conviction should be vacated and had waived any statute of limitations defense).

Because the holding in Simmons does not have retroactive effect on collateral review, petitioner’s claim based on Simmons fails. Accordingly, it will be recommended that the petition be denied.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, it is RECOMMENDED that the petition (D.E. 90) be DENIED.

IT IS ORDERED that the Clerk send copies of this Memorandum and Recommendation to counsel for the respective parties, who shall have until 11 June 2013 in which to file written objections. Failure to file timely written objections bars an aggrieved party from receiving a de novo review by the District Judge on an issue covered in the Memorandum and Recommendation and, except upon grounds of plain error, from attacking on appeal the unobjected-to proposed factual findings and legal conclusions accepted by the District Judge. Responses to any objections shall be filed within 14 days after service thereof, unless otherwise ordered by the court.

SO ORDERED, this the 28th day of May 2013.

James E. Gates
United States Magistrate Judge
